

LEAVING A LEGACY

with Coach Laurie

A decorative flourish featuring a quill pen with its nib pointing towards the top right, integrated into the title design.

Quick Publishing Formula

Step one:

Don't over think this, just write down 18 to 24 things you want people to know.

Not about you but about life.

Step two:

Pick one of those 18 – 24 things and start writing.

Write until you can't write any more (don't edit).

Or talk it (if you have a voice to text app) or a recording app on your phone,

Just talk and talk and talk about it, no editing! Not your job.

Repeat until you have written or talked through each of the 18 – 24 things

Which are now your chapters.

Put them in order that seems best and hire an editor.

Do not pass go, do not collect 200.

Not friends or family but someone who is a “real” editor.

It is about more than punctuation.

Then

Hire a graphic artist for your cover.

Not friend or family but a “real” graphic artist who will understand the dimensions of the book cover and back when it goes to publishing

You can use
